WELCOME!

“Children! Make something new! Something new! And again something new!” Richard Wagner’s motto for creative people conveys the idea that we need to be open to innovation to appeal to the future. Pierre Boulez pursued this idea when he founded the Lucerne Festival Academy in 2004 as a musical workshop in which only what is new is put to the test and presented so that the audience experiences an emotional connection to unfamiliar sounds. We celebrate the 20th anniversary of our Academy by exploring the theme of “Curiosity” and opening ourselves up to being inspired by an avid hunger for the new (the German word for curiosity, Neugier, literally means “hunger for the new”): new works and modes of presentation. The repertoire’s “classics” naturally benefit from this angle as well.

Two composers with milestone birthdays take center stage. Anton Bruckner, who was born 200 years ago and who stunningly put Wagner’s motto into practice, is represented by no fewer than five symphonies, with Yannick Nézet-Séguin, Kirill Petrenko, Andris Nelsons, Christian Thielemann, and Lahav Shani as the conductors. Arnold Schoenberg went one step further and even invented a new musical grammar with his twelve-tone theory. To mark his 150th birthday, we trace the path from his late Romantic beginnings to atonality.

You can experience the incomparable Lucerne Festival Orchestra in four concerts conducted by Riccardo Chailly, Klaus Mäkelä, and Yannick Nézet-Séguin. The Lucerne Festival Contemporary Orchestra (LFCO) will focus on works by our two composers-in-residence, Beat Furrer and Lisa Streich, as well as by the Academy’s founder Pierre Boulez and his successor Wolfgang Rihm. And the two “artistes étoiles,” Lisa Batiashvili and Sheku Kanneh-Mason, will arouse your curiosity with unusual projects.

Looking forward to a summer of surprises!

Best regards,

Michael Haefliger
Executive and Artistic Director

LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA

This orchestra always goes all out. Whether playing softly or at full volume, etching a melody or building to a climax, the Lucerne Festival Orchestra teases out contrasts while eliciting the finest details from the score. Mahler's and Bruckner's Seventh Symphonies as well as Schumann's Second are on the program in 2024, along with breathtaking piano concertos by Clara Schumann, Edvard Grieg, and Sergei Rachmaninoff (to whom an entire evening will be devoted). Music Director Riccardo Chailly, Klaus Mäkelä, and Yannick Nézet-Séguin will conduct, and Leif Ove Andsnes, Alexander Malofeev, and Beatrice Rana will dazzle as the piano soloists.

An anniversary! For 20 years, over 100 musical talents from all over the world have convened every summer at the Lucerne Festival Academy to devote themselves to the music of our time. To mark this milestone, works by Academy directors Pierre Boulez and Wolfgang Rihm will be performed, as well as brand-new scores by Beat Furrer, Andrew Norman, and Lisa Streich. Among the guests will be the trumpeter Simon Höfele, the conductor Ruth Reinhardt, and the composer Lisa Streich, all of whom underwent significant formation at the Academy.

LISA BATIASHVILI

“ARTISTE ÉTOILE”

Breathtaking virtuosity, a charismatic aura, unusual program ideas, and a beguiling violin tone: Lisa Batiashvili has everything one could wish for in an “artiste étoile.” What’s more, she speaks out courageously on political issues: for example, on behalf of Ukraine. She fights for human rights and, through the Lisa Batiashvili Foundation, promotes highly talented young musicians from her home country of Georgia. You must experience this artist!

Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto
in D major, Op. 35

He has completely shaken up the music world. There's nothing elitist about Sheku Kanneh-Mason — he looks more like the nice boy next door. But when he plays the cello, you can't help but be amazed. Incredible speed and emotion, virtuosity, and poetry: it's all there! Though only 24 years old, the British cellist is already one of the world's stars. As "artiste étoile," he will perform two famous cello concertos, one each by Dvořák and Shostakovich, appear in a duo recital with guitar, and astound us with a surprise concert.

BEAT FURRER

COMPOSER-IN-RESIDENCE

“Every note’s fading away contains an entire drama in itself,” according to Beat Furrer, whose music emphasizes the physical tangibility of sound. Born in Schaffhausen, Switzerland, and based in Vienna, Furrer is one of the most distinguished composers of our time. As part of his Lucerne residency, he will lead the world premiere of a new orchestral piece. Beat Furrer will also present his opera Begehren for the first time in Switzerland in a performance in which he will conduct the ensemble he founded, Klangforum Wien.

Furrer linea dell’orizzonte for ensemble

Sometimes she thinks of the cello as a piano so as to stimulate entirely new sonic ideas. Sometimes she listens to the slightly off-pitch intonation of amateur choirs to hear unusual harmonies. Lisa Streich is not interested in “the perfect piece,” as she explains. Rather, she wants to “bring things together that I haven’t come across before.” Seven years ago, the Swedish composer, who was born in 1985, was introduced in Lucerne as part of the Roche Young Commissions series. Now she returns as composer-in-residence with a new trumpet concerto among other pieces.

LUCERNE FESTIVAL FRIENDS

Are you a lover of classical music who is excited by outstanding performances — and would you like to become better acquainted with the artists? Then Lucerne Festival Friends is the right place for you!

Through our personal commitment and annual donations, we make a significant contribution to the financial security and sustainability of Lucerne Festival. We of course support the Lucerne Festival Orchestra. We are moreover committed to the continuing development of the Festival, including initiatives to support young talent within the framework of our Lucerne Festival Academy, which is celebrating its 20th anniversary this summer. In this way we help establish a foundation for the musical life of tomorrow.

As a Friend or Young Friend of Lucerne Festival, you can enhance your concert experience through visits to rehearsals, encounters with the performers, and special introductory offers. You have exclusive access to the Friends Lounge during the Summer Festival, belong to a network of music enthusiasts, and regularly go on cultural and musical trips together.

Your Benefits as a Subscriber:

- Subscription discount: Subscribers receive a 5% discount on each ticket price. The subscription prices that are listed already include the discount.
- Access to ticket purchases before the official start of sales: By choosing one of our subscriptions, you can ensure that you have tickets for the most sought-after events of the Summer Festival before tickets officially go on sale to the general public.
- Digital program booklets free of charge: All subscriptions include free access to the digital program booklets for your concert visit.

Information on Ordering:

The Summer Subscriptions are only for individual customers and may be purchased exclusively for the price categories I–IV. They can be ordered online starting now until 31 January 2024 at the latest; the order forms for these can be found in the center of the Summer Preview or online at lucernefestival.ch/en/subs.

Orders will be processed in the order in which they are received, starting at the beginning of February 2024. Categories are subject to availability.
